Published on November 19, 2020

INTRODUCTION

The Jerusalem Human Rights Consortium (JHRC), is a consortium of 4 leading Palestinian human rights organizations native in Jerusalem; The Jerusalem Legal Aid and Human Rights Centre (JLAC), The Land Research Centre (LRC), The Saints Yves Association (St Yves) and the Women's Centre for legal Aid and Counselling (WCLAC).

The consortium has started the implementation of the project “Protecting Marginalized Communities in East Jerusalem through legal aid, planning and advocacy”, funded by the EU East Jerusalem Programme, The overall objective of the project is to support the marginalized Palestinian communities in East Jerusalem, increase their resilience, prevent forcible transfer and reinforce the Palestinian identity of East Jerusalem. Over the course of the project, the consortium and its member organizations will support the resilience of Palestinian Jerusalemite communities through the provision of legal aid, land planning assistance, and local and international advocacy efforts.

The legal aid efforts the consortium organizations will provide can be broken down into

- House Demolitions
- Residency Rights
- Social & Economic Rights
- GBV and Family Rights due to Israeli discriminatory laws and policies
- Public Interest Cases

The JHRC is hosted by the Jerusalem Legal Aid and Human Rights Centre (JLAC), and thus JLAC acts as the legal representative of the JHRC.

RATIONALE

Since occupying and eventually annexing East Jerusalem illegally, Israeli occupation authorities, through the Jerusalem occupation municipality, the Ministry of Interior and other official bodies, have sought to erase Jerusalem's Palestinian identity. The policies adopted and implemented to achieve this purpose have impacted every aspect of Palestinians' quotidian lives.

These policies are part and parcel of a larger apparatus of forcible transfer, judization and erasure, to which we refer here as the "architecture of dispossession and repression." Not only do the laws, regulations and policies upon which this architecture is formed violate international humanitarian law and international human rights law, they even contravene, on many occasions, with the Israeli Basic Laws and constitutional norms.

Besides targeting their identity, existence, civil and political rights, these policies have left the Palestinian residents in Jerusalem reeling from poverty, unemployment and social and economic disenfranchisement.

Any discussion of the situation of Palestinians in Jerusalem should have as its starting point the legal status imposed by Israel on the city's Palestinian population, that of the "permanent residents," whose residency is fragile and revocable.

In addition to the revocability of their status, Palestinians in occupied Jerusalem live under the constant threat of home demolitions, a direct consequence of systematically discriminatory planning policies that attempt to exclude Palestinians from the urban space.

The legal challenges facing Palestinians in Jerusalem have been further exacerbated over the last decade with the rise of the Israeli right, which has pushed for various laws and regulations to solidify the Israeli control over East Jerusalem.

Among the most striking manifestations of such legislations is the amendment to the Israeli Planning and Construction Law, commonly known as the Kaminitz law. The amendment provides inspection units with unprecedented powers in the realm of enforcement while also imposing harsher fines and criminal sentences to "deter" the phenomenon of "unauthorized construction." Moreover, the amendment limits the power and discretion of the Local Affairs Court, under whose jurisdiction the issue of unauthorized construction lies, by restricting the number and length of the injunctions that freeze demolition orders.

This drastic escalation requires the re-evaluation of the legal strategies to be adopted by organizations or individual attorneys active in defending the rights of Palestinians in Jerusalem.

Above all, we argue that to confront these changes, efficient coordination among Palestinian human rights organizations is urgently needed as is, at some point, the institutionalization of such coordination. The main objectives of this desired coordination is the crystallization of a strategic legal plan with tangible outcomes, coordinating legal action, and augmenting their power to affect and challenge the Israeli legislation, policies and measures in East Jerusalem.

This does not, by any means, imply that there is a shortage of efforts focused on offering legal protection to residents affected by demolition orders, residency revocation, and general denial of rights. Yet, these efforts are scattered, lack the proper methodology, and are geared toward case-by-case litigation and individual solutions rather than constituting a comprehensive strategy based upon coordination, cooperation and centralization. Only by formulating such a comprehensive, crosscutting strategy can we aspire to effectively confront the discriminatory, repressive and coercive legal landscape charted by Israel.
